Golding wishes to advise that a staged recommencement of mining activities have commenced today at Baralaba North Coal Mine, following the site shutdown in relation to the fatal accident which resulted in the death of Jack Gerdes, on Sunday, 7th July.

The recommencement of mining activity was made in consultation with the Inspector of Mines investigating the incident and the accident scene will remain isolated until the evidence collection process is complete.

Golding CEO Geoff Caton said that the company does not yet have a definitive date for findings or for the final report regarding the accident from the Mines Inspectorate.
